DETAILED ACTION

Finality

In view of the appeal brief filed on 6/6/2008, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. New grounds of rejection are set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) initiate a new appeal by filing a notice of appeal under 37 CFR 41.31 followed by an appeal brief under 37 CFR 41.37. The previously paid notice of appeal fee and appeal brief fee can be applied to the new appeal. If, however, the appeal fees set forth in 37 CFR 41.20 have been increased since they were previously paid, then appellant must pay the difference between the increased fees and the amount previously paid.

A Supervisory Patent Examiner (SPE) has approved of reopening prosecution by signing below:

/Eduardo C. Robert/

Supervisory Patent Examiner, Art Unit 3733.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1, 3, 7, 16-19, 25, 27-28, 33, 52-62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1, 28, and 52 recite the limitation "screw bores formed in the spinal plate." There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Applicant has not positively recited a spinal plate prior to mention of the above line. Connection to a plate appears to be a functional limitation of the first and second opposed alignment tabs but the plate is not considered to be positively recited in this regard.

Appropriate action is required.

Specification

The content of the specification should be updated to reflect the current status of the continuing applications.

- (b) Cross-References to Related Applications: See 37 CFR 1.78 and MPEP § 201.11.

Application 10/409958 is also now US Patent 7,416,553.

Appropriate action is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims , 3, 7, 16-19, 25, 27-28, 33, 52-54, 57-62 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Oxland et al. ("Oxland," US Patent 5,676,666). Oxland disclose a guide device capable for use with a spinal plate comprising an elongate shaft (62/92) having a proximal (92) and distal end (opposite) where the proximal end is angled with respect to the distal end (Fig. 1), a guide member (74) coupled to the distal end of the elongate shaft including a first and second lumens (80, both sides, Fig. 1a) that extend therethrough and are fixed in relation to one another, a first and second opposed alignment tabs (76/78) that extend distally from opposed outer edges of the guide member such that the first and second lumens are positioned between the first and second alignment tabs. It is further noted that the alignment tabs are adapted to interact with a spinal plate. With regards to functionality of the tabs interacting with the spinal plate it has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138. The alignment tabs are also adapted to non-fixedly interact with the spinal plate. They act like clips to hold on to a plate during use (see Figs. 4/5). Oxland further disclose at least one protrusion that extends distally and is disposed within a plate bore. The protrusion is the rounded tip of a barrel (82) that extends into a plate bore (Figs. 4/5). It is considered to have a shape. There are also two barrels (82/80), each having a lumen (see active use in Fig. 7), and they are further angled with respect to one another.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 56 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oxland et al. '666. Oxland discloses the claimed invention except for a protrusion that has an oval shape. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the protrusion having an oval shape to interact with spinal plate, since applicant has not disclosed that such solve any stated problem or is anything more than one of numerous shapes or configurations a person ordinary skill in the art would find obvious for the purpose of providing a forming edge in the heating portion or clamp. In re Dailey and Eilers, 149 USPQ 47 (1966).

Response to Arguments

The Status of Claims: For examination purposes, the pending claims are those entered on 4/25/2008.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3, 7, 16-19, 25, 27-28, 33, 52-62 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO-892.
